To My Friends Old and New

As Freshmen everything was strange and unknown. We walked about the halls confused and lost trying to maintain our artificially-tough image. Following in the dwarfing shadows of the upperclassmen. Always at the bottom looking up.

Then we were Sophomores, more adjusted and sure of ourselves. We began to feel like a group. Class rings meant that we belonged and dreams began to jell.

Ah, to be a Junior. Halfway through, our seat secured. We know the daily routines, classes, and teachers. Our first real prom together. Denim replaced by lace, t-shirts by a tux. No worry of tomorrow, only plans for today.

Suddenly it is here, our Senior year. For some reason it seems shorter than the rest. We travel through it with greater appreciation for the people in our lives and the time we have together. Anticipation smacking with remorse fills our hearts and different goals confuse our minds. We find ourselves envying the Freshmen for their path still unexplored and time unspent. At last we stand side by side clad in cap and gowns. Tears cloud our eyes as we watch the door to our childhood close. Yes, a journey of twelve years draws to an end. The journey through life begins.

I look around now at all my brothers and sisters and realize how big a part of my life you all are.

Till we meet again, Good Luck everyone.

Robyn Caddell — 1980
